

On The Great White Way

NEAR-NEWS AND CHATTER FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

To the lady first correctly guessing the identity of the person of whom the following is a character sketch, and bringing a copy of this paper to The Tribune office, a cash prize of $1.00 will be given. The subject of the sketch is a prominent citizen of La Crosse. After winning one prize, a contestant will not be eligible to again compete for a period of three months.

The subject of the character sketch in last week's "Guess Who's Here" contest was D. S. Law, the winner being Miss L. Hosely, 519 Division street.

It's a great boy, is Fritzle—son. You see, little Fritzle is still at the kindergarten age when we say "it" for "he" or "she" without being corrected by the fond mamma. Fritzle, one might say, is of the stock that in the perilous years before the Columbian wanderlust would have developed a German viking. But what of it? We are not writing of Fritzle, but of Fritzle's papa, the man whose cheerful smile (prow) beams upon you; the man who is always ready to (prow) share his joys with you. But, leaving business out of it, our hero is not outdone by friend Devil, for to match Mephisto's horn he has his antlers. He's a secretary of something (here's where John Utermoehl missed another bet) and it pleases him much that part of his work is charitable. Indeed, when he writes an order for a pair of shoes for some poor kid one may truthfully call him a Phil-anthropist.

Nobody need be surprised if our own Pete (P. J.) Tschanner be comes the speaker of the next South Dakota assembly. Pete was re-elected, as a republican, the first Tuesday after the first Monday, which is odd enough to be noteworthy in this democratic year of our Lord. There may be those who don't remember that Pete Tschanner practiced law in this city for about a year. Most of us remember it, however, and some of us know what he has been doing most of the other thirty-two years which make up his dignified total of thirty-three.

Pete was born in Fountain City, approximately, for even he isn't sure whether this historic event occurred in the village or on the farm. He acquired kernels of knowledge at the Alma high school and the River Falls normal, and for three years he sowed kernels in the capacity of school teacher. From 1898 to 1901 he put on the finishing touches of his education in the University of Wisconsin, ascending one rung in his ladder of fame by winning the inter-collegiate debate between Wisconsin and Iowa. From the fall of 1901 till May, 1907, he practiced law in Greenwood. Then he located in Lemmon, S. D. He became the first assistant state's attorney for Butte county, and after Perkins county was carved off from Butte county he became state's attorney for the latter. He was first elected to the legislature in 1910, serving on the appropriations, apportionment, judiciary and railroad committees. He is the author of South Dakota's employers' liability law and of other legislation of a progressive nature, affecting corporations and humanitarian subjects. In fact, Pete Tschanner measures up to the standard of the most approved class of Wisconsin progressives, and any time South Dakota don't want him, he's the one Lemmon they can hand us.

Not all the "vodvillo" at St. Mary's Bazaar was rehearsed. For instance, that touching thing Joe Kidder and Billy Hutzgen pulled off—or nearly off—in the Dora Flora sextette. Billy was one of the dusky belles of the occasion, and Joe was improvising some giraffian "steps" more emphatic than elegant. Well, Joe just naturally landed his hobnails on the trail of Billy's gown, and anchored. Joe smiled his blackest to the applauding crowd, and returned a blank stare to Billy's frantically telegraphed warning. Billy, standing pat in error while he should have been doing a buck and wing with the other girls, gesticulated wildly, his fingers showing red through the burnt cork, but Joe couldn't decipher the code. Finally Billy explained to Joe and the first four rows: "F" lawd's sake, Joe! "I" lawd's sake get off my skirt. It's about all I got on."

If on Thanksgiving you'd be blest, Attend the Elks' Club Turkeyfest Next Wednesday night. The hour is 8, And you'll regret it if you're late. Wait Hosely will amuse and feed you, And someone will be there to bleed you.

Judge Edward Cronon takes judicial notice of the fact that J. E. Keizer is automatically incapable of exceeding the speed limit in his automobile. The court, by inference, lays down the dictum that Patrolman August Yehle is not a speedometer.

It developed also that the only incriminating circumstance in the case was Judge L. Kleeber. In the opinion of the court there was no other passenger in the car with enough sporting blood to push an automobile under the wire ahead of its own gasoline smell. Hon. John J. Esch had delivered an address at Bangor the Saturday evening previous to election, and was returning in Mr. Keizer's car. Mrs. Keizer and Judge L. Kleeber made up the remainder of the party. They motored down country with Mr. Keizer's customary caution, but while passing through the north side were accosted by Officer Yehle. Conscious that their speed was modest, they did not stop, believing the officer was not directing his remarks at them.

But they couldn't get by Yehle—no August Yehle. No indeed! Mr. Keizer was duly arrested, and Hon. Esch and Hon. Kleeber appeared in police court as expert witnesses. Judge Kleeber testified that "what's right is right and harms no man," and Mr. Esch, taking the start from scratch at Bangor and the time under the wire at La Crosse, and figuring the elapsed time, showed the court that the average speed for the entire trip was considerably under the speed limit. Of course the court could readily understand that if the average speed was legal any excession of the speed must have been equally legal, and although he was very eager to make examples of gentlemen of distinction who might even try to rob his court of the unusual honor their rare presence conferred by attempting to suppress the news, His Honor felt obliged to acquit under the compelling logic of the congressman's testimony. Perhaps, too, the court was further influenced by the fact that Yehle "caught" the number of the car, but didn't know whether it was for or off, starboard or larboard, forward or the fo'c'sle or abaft the carburetor.

Anyway, it was a swell catch Officer Yehle made. Many a long expected promotion has turned upon the merits of a job like that—turned turtle. Indiscretion is the better part of that feller.

A prominent young man of this city, who (for some unaccountable reason) begs us on bended knees not to mention his name, recently walked into the dining room of the Jefferson Hotel and proceeded to demolish a dinner that looked like compound sufficiency. A moment later a friend took the place opposite him and favored him with an incredulous stare. Finally the newcomer asked:

"Didn't I see you in B—'s (a cheap restaurant) only a few moments ago finishing a big dinner?" Our hero, with some confusion, admitted it, and explained:

"You don't know much about the high cost of living? Now, I've got a tape worm, and he eats more 'n I do. So, to cut down expenses, I buy a cheap meal for the tape worm and right after that I buy a good meal for myself."

INDIAN CHIEF IS WHIPPED BY WIFE

Descendant of Great Decorah Seeks a Separation from Vixenish Spouse

IS POUNDED UNTIL HE IS SICK

Refuses to Tell Cause of His Family Troubles; a Man of Dignity

Whether he thought the dignity of the descendant of a mighty war chief would not permit him to defend himself from the attack of a woman or whether he feared the fiery temper of his dusky spouse, will never be known for he was as taciturn as he was dignified and when an Indian is dignified he is so from his toes to the top of his hat. Thus when Court Commissioner John A. Daniels questioned Fred Decorah, an Indian farmer living near Reno, Minn., yesterday in regard to his family troubles when he applied for a separation from his wife, Alice Skoke, the Indian was very loath to speak of his affairs.

Fred Decorah is a great-grandson of the great Decorah, chief of the Winnebago tribe whose name brought fear to the hearts of the early settlers of the upper Mississippi valley, and after whom Decorah Prairie and Decorah Peak in Trempealeau county, and the city of Decorah, Iowa, are named. He is a member of the present chief's family and still retains his tribal relations although he has assumed the ways of the white man. His prosperity is as evident as his anger against his wife. He wore clothes of more than ordinary excellence and he is a magnificent specimen of Indian manhood, more than six feet tall, broad and well built.

Beaten With Club

Under the close questioning of Judge Daniels he declared that "Smoke," his squaw, had beaten him with a club until he became sick. He said he pushed him into a corner and pounded him on the back in unreasoning rage. He refused to tell the cause of the trouble, just saying that he was through with her. He asserted that such a thing was something that a descendant of a great warrior chief, and a man of the royal blood of the Winnebago race, could not endure.

He wanted Judge Daniels to draw up papers so that his wife can draw her government allotment separately. Heretofore he, as head of the family, has drawn both allotments. He does not ask a separation according to paleface law. It is not necessary with the tribal marriage rules.

Legal Knot to Untie

Decorah has two children. One is his by a former squaw. This child he wants to keep. But his papoose by Alice Skoke, the squaw with temper, he is willing to let the mother keep. The settlement, involves a complicated legal question, and the court commissioner is not sure that the Winnebago chieftain can be given what he wants.

DOCTOR ACCUSED AS WIFE SLAYER

Springfield, Ohio, Physician Alleged to Have Poisoned His Mate

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 23.—Dr. Arthur B. Smith, indicted late yesterday on the charge of first degree murder for the alleged poisoning of his wife, Florence Cavalier Smith, society and church leader, will be arraigned before Judge Kunkle Monday. He had no statement to make in the county jail.

The physician took his arrest coolly, four minutes after the special grand jury called by Prosecutor Lawrence Laybourne had returned the indictment containing four counts. Although rumors were abroad, no official investigation of Mrs. Smith's death was made until the doctor married Miss Mabel Claire Marchant, nurse in the Springfield city hospital, at her home in Newton Highlands, Mass., on October 15.

The second Mrs. Smith firmly believes in her husband's innocence, and said today that she was positive he would be cleared. Dr. Smith's aged mother is near death from the shock of his arrest.

SWIMMING POOL IS SCENE OF TRAGEDY

Man Shoots and Mortally Wounds Woman and Then Kills Himself

SLAYER'S FAMILY NOT SURPRISED

Baltimore Relatives Show No Alarm at Deed and Will Not Claim Body

RENO, Nev., Nov. 23.—The coroner today began an investigation of the causes leading to the tragedy at a bathing resort here, when H. S. Weems of Baltimore shot and wounded Mrs. Estelle Baggott of Los Angeles and then committed suicide. It was stated today that the woman may recover.

From letters found on the clothing of the couple, it was evident they had met before the woman came here November 11, apparently to get a divorce. Yesterday they went to the bathing resort together and took a plunge in the pool. Mrs. Baggott suddenly ran out of the resort, crying that she had been shot, and fell with a bullet in her abdomen and another in her wrist.

As the resort authorities approached the pool, they heard two more shots and found Weems lying in the water dead. He had shot himself through the head.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 23.—H. S. Weems, who shot Mrs. E. W. Baggott and killed himself in Reno, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Weems, 1805 North Calvert street, this city. His mother volunteered the statement that the family had expected him to do something of the kind. The mother will not have the body brought to this city.

REFUSE JOHNSON INTERVIEW

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—A request of Puggist Jack Johnson that he be permitted to see and interview Lucile Cameron, the 19 year old Minneapolis white girl, who is a witness against him, was denied today by Federal Judge Carpenter. The Cameron girl is still held in jail at Rockford, Ill.

APPRECIATION

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the La Crosse Hospital takes great pleasure in publicly extending thanks to all who so generously helped to make the last Charity Ball so great a success.

The newspapers gave columns of space to advertising the ball, which at ordinary rates would have amounted to a large sum.

Ladies gave day after day of their time to soliciting, ticket-selling and decorating, some of them denying themselves the use of their automobiles that their chauffeurs might help at the ball. All of the greenhouses gave generously of flowers and greens, while Mr. C. E. Schafer donated two days of his time to assisting the decorating committee, besides furnishing flowers and palms.

Tillman Bros., the Barron Co. and the Park Store loaned furniture, furnishings and dishes without limit and without price.

The grocers and butchers responded willingly to appeals for aid, and last but not least the Livermen donated carriages to take home the tired women who had worked from 10 o'clock Thursday morning until 3 the next morning.

And for what? That the charity fund for the La Crosse Hospital might be increased, and more patients cared for than could otherwise be done.

This year the net receipts from the ball were $646.58. This sum will provide two free beds in the wards for a year. The amount of charity work done last year was over eleven hundred dollars, while in most years it has been even more.

The following is the list of persons whom the Auxiliary desires particularly to thank:

WISCONSIN LEADS IN PROGRESSIVISM

This State Cynosure of Nation's Eyes, Declares Rev. Henry Forsythe Milligan

GLORIOUS TRIBUTE PAID "BOB"

Iowa Clergyman Lauds the Senator in Address Before Gentlemen's Coffee Last Night

A glowing tribute to the progressiveness of Wisconsin was paid last night by the Rev. Henry Forsythe Milligan, Dubuque, Iowa, the gentleman chosen to deliver the annual address before the eighteenth annual gentlemen's coffee at the Congregational church.

For years, declared the Iowa clergyman, the eyes of the nation have been on Wisconsin and the record this state has made for progressive legislation has made it the pioneer in what is now recognized as one of the greatest movements in American political history.

The speaker contended that there were but few of the business men who failed to recognize the merit in some of the legislation recently framed in the interests of the so-called common people, and deplored the fact that these same men had at times allied themselves with the opposition on such questions merely because the measures affected their pecuniary profits.

Compliments La Follette

"The Pilgrim in a New Generation" was the subject of the annual address, and after reviewing the humanitarian side of much of this state's recent legislation, he took occasion to pay a sincere compliment to the work, accomplishment and masterful leadership of Senator Robert M. La Follette in behalf of this movement.

"In Iowa," he said, "we have always looked to Wisconsin to point the way and it is the sincere hope of the majority there, and in many other states, that in 1916 it may be given to this state to give to this country its next president."

Rev. Henry Faville, pastor of the First Congregational church, presided at the meeting, which was attended by about 150 men. The reception committee was composed of Judge John Brindley, E. O. Edwards, A. H. Mitchell, T. B. Lawrence, A. H. Mitchell, T. B. Lawrence, J. W. Congdon, Hon. John J. Esch, C. N. Hawley, G. E. Mariner, W. R. Montague and C. S. Van Auker.

The feast was enlivened by music rendered by the High school orchestra under the direction of Miss Martha Rollins. The players were applauded after almost every selection. A male quartet, composed of Messrs. Bearmore, Barney, Kerr and Schultz was a feature of the evening, being recalled by vociferous applause.

The guests were welcomed by John M. Holley in a graceful little talk at the opening of the after-dinner program. The dinner was served by the ladies of the church. Rev. D. B. Scott, D. D., of Massachusetts, asked grace.

CHICAGO PLAYS GOPHERS EVEN

Minnesota Has Little Better of Playing but Is Unable to Cross Goal in the First Half

MARSHALL FIELD, CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—The Chicago-Minnesota game in the middle of the third quarter this afternoon was still anybody's game. The Gophers had the advantage owing to the trick plays of Dr. Williams, but in punting Norgan of the Maroons had the better of Adams. The play stayed consistently near the center of the field, the teams being fairly evenly matched.

Minnesota had the better of the first quarter and had possession of the ball most of the time, their famous shift being employed almost entirely by them to advance the oval. A new forward pass was also attempted. No sensational runs were made by either team, all the gains being for short distances. The Gophers worked the ball up to the Maroon 25 yard line but they were held and McAlmon dropped back to the 35 yard line for a try at a goal which he missed by a narrow margin.

THREATENS WILSON

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Nov. 23.—Declaring that he will kill President-elect Wilson if he gets a chance John J. Cohan, a one-armed man, is under arrest today. He was arrested on a disturbance charge and is being held until word is received from secret service operatives.

FUNERAL TOMORROW

The funeral of Mrs. E. Kriebel, who died at her home yesterday, will be held tomorrow afternoon from the residence, 1533 Mississippi street, at two o'clock and from the Norwegian Lutheran church at 2:30 with Rev. Maglessen officiating at the services.

HARVARD WINS EASTERN TITLE

Brickley of Crimson Particular Star of the Game with Yale Today

GET FIRST SCORE ON A FUMBLE

Yale Quarterback Drops Ball and Tackle Storer Recovers and Runs 35 Yards for Touchdown

Harvard, 20; Yale, 0.

Brickley's toe was Harvard's strong point. In the first period he made a drop kick from Yale's thirty yard line. A little before he had attempted another from the twenty yard line and narrowly missed. The first score for Harvard came when Wheeler, quarterback for Yale, fumbled. Storer, Crimson left tackle, recovered the ball and got away for a thirty-five yard run for a touchdown.

The game was a punting duel between Felton for Harvard and Flynn for Yale, with the honors about even. In the second period there was a little old fashioned football but except for a fifteen yard gain around left end by Brickley neither side made many gains. With the ball on Yale's thirty-five yard line in this period, Brickley attempted another drop kick, but failed.

YALE FIELD, NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 23.—Harvard today won the eastern football title by defeating Yale on its own gridiron. The game was a spectacular exhibition of kicking, and was marked by star plays of both sides, although two fumbles in the first period gave the Crimson a lead of 10 points, helped out by Brickley with a drop kick.

Flynn's punting kept the ball well into Harvard's territory much of the time, but the Harvard line covered him well and he did not great damage while carrying the ball. Until taken out of the game Bomelsier's work at end was spectacular. Time and again Bomelsier nailed a Crimson player in his tracks as he caught Flynn's long punts.

In the third quarter Brickley carried the ball around Yale's right end fifteen yards for a touchdown. The ball was punted out and Felton kicked goal. The punting battle continued in this period. The Yale line seemed to be weakening and Harvard made several long gains.

In the third period with the ball on Yale's ten yard line Brickley dropped back and shot a beautiful drop kick between the posts from the seventeen yard line. In the last quarter the Blue team picked up after the ball had been carried to their own thirty yard line and started a march down the field. The game ended, however, before they were within striking distance of the Crimson goal.

BABY LIVES JUST A YEAR

James Graw, the one year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Reinhart Graw, 821 St. Andrew street, died suddenly of convulsions at his home last evening, death coming the day after his first birthday. He had been ill but a short time and Dr. G. W. Lueck just called to see him and it was thought that he would recover. The boy was then put back in his cradle and when the family went to him next time it was found that he was dead. The funeral will be held at the St. John's church Monday morning.

GIBSON CASE DISMISSED.

The case against H. C. Gibson, former agent for the Computing Scales company of Detroit, Mich., which was to have been tried in county court yesterday, was dismissed, having been settled out of court. Gibson was arrested in Minneapolis about three weeks ago and brought to La Crosse on a charge of embezzlement. It was alleged that he appropriated a sum of money belonging to his company while working in La Crosse.

TO RE-ELECT GOMPERS

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 23.—Interest in the convention of the American Federation of Labor centered today in the election of officers, which the delegates voted to make a special order of business for the late afternoon. The re-election of President Samuel Gompers and most of his associates in the executive council was conceded to be a practical certainty.

START ANTI-RUSS MOVE

CANTON, China, Nov. 23.—A big anti-Russian society opened headquarters here today. Its business will be the stirring up sentiment in favor of a declaration of hostilities against the czar in retaliation for the attempt he is said to be making to grab outer Mongolia.

Mrs. Anna Gibbons was granted an interlocutory divorce by Judge E. C. Higbee in circuit court today against her husband, Patrick Gibbons.

POWERS THOUGHT ON VERGE OF BIG EUROPEAN WAR

Albanian Declaration of Independence Today May Bring On the Clash

RUSSIA MOBILIZING ARMY CORPS

Austrian and German Army Leaders Hold a Secret Conference Today

DEPENDS ON SERBIAN DECISION

Albanian Independence to Cut the Serbs Off from "Adriatic Window" They Demand

BUDAPEST, Nov. 23.—The Albanian chieftains declared their country's independence today, it was learned here through Montenegrin sources.

The declaration of Albania's independence brings the Austro-Serbian controversy immediately to a head. It is through Albania that Serbia must get its Adriatic "window" if it is to have one at all. A nominally independent Albania will be under Austrian control, Austria and Italy together will choose its ruler.

It was considered here that the declaration was probably inspired from Vienna, Austria, Italy and Germany are expected to recognize it at once.

Servia will have to make up its mind immediately what course to adopt. The prediction was made by high authorities that the next few hours will show, in view of the latest development, whether there is to be peace or war between the powers.

Russia Mobilizes Army

VIENNA, Nov. 23.—An assertion in the Reichspost that Russia is mobilizing twenty-four army corps caused a furore here today. It was reported that Austria has 500,000 troops already on a war footing.

Germany Uneasy

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—Officialdom still insisted today that a general European clash over the Balkans is unlikely but the public trembled with anxiety.

It was certain at any rate that extensive military preparations are authority for the assertion that despite all demands Russia is concentrating strongly on the Austrian frontier. In Austria seven army corps were being placed on a war footing.

There was an unconfirmed report that Austria has asked Russia what the czar means by the military movements in progress in his country and that the czar said they were rendered necessary by internal conditions.

Field Marshal Schemua, chief of the Austrian general staff, arrived here unexpectedly yesterday for a conference with Field Marshal Von Moltke, chief of the German general staff. His visit was taken as indicating both the gravity of the situation and the completeness of the understanding between the Austrian and German governments.

Nothing definite had been heard concerning a modification of the allies' armistice terms to Turkey but that there would be a modification was considered certain and everything indicated that it would be of such a nature that the sultan would accept it.

Cholera Declimates Turks

Constant Turkish reinforcements were said to be arriving from Asia but so frightful are the cholera's ravages that it was understood the number of new arrivals is barely sufficient to offset the deaths from the disease.

The Bulgarians, now several miles back from Chatalja and encamped on high ground, were reported making desperate efforts to stamp out the epidemic, which they admitted was growing alarming in their own as well as in the Turkish army.

WEATHER

For La Crosse and vicinity: Fair tonight and Sunday; colder tonight; rising temperature Sunday.

For Wisconsin: Fair tonight and Sunday; colder tonight east and south portions; rising temperature Sunday.

For Minnesota: Fair tonight and Sunday; rising temperature east portion Sunday.

For Iowa: Fair tonight and Sunday; colder east portion tonight; warmer east portion Sunday.

The depression in the northwest yesterday morning developed into a storm of considerable energy and moved eastward into the lake region accompanied by high winds and has caused rain and snow in Wisconsin and northern Michigan. The pressure continues highest over the Plateau region.

Is The Better Part of Good Style

The Joy of Women who Wear It.

The Dispair of Women who don't.

The REDFERN is peculiarly the corset of the woman who seeks grace and flexibility, with no loss of comfort. Its special boning offers a scarcely perceptible resistance rather than rebuke to the figure, being designed to yield to every movement of the body and yet insure permanent retention of outline. Thus, in addition to its wonderful grace and beauty, the REDFERN offers you that comfort which is often absent in corsets even of the better kind.

Mr. McGonnigal Arranges Picture Show which the Park Commission Thinks Excellent

G. A. McGonnigal, manager for this district of the National Cash Register company, has received assurances from the home office that the N. C. R.'s famous moving picture crusade for the Home Beautiful will be extended to La Crosse. The date has not been set, but the advance agent is expected within a week.

The show is said to have the approval of Joseph M. Hixon, president of the park commission, and L. P. Benezet, superintendent of schools. Mr. Benezet is said to be particularly interested because of the fact that President Patterson of the N. C. R. company is the originator of the "boy's garden" plan used in the schools of the day. The show may have the patronage of the park commission, as it has the endorsement of the individual members who have investigated it.

Working out its own individual problems, the N. C. R. company has proved that a transformation from squalid surroundings to attractive environments can be made at small expense, both in money and labor.

Kinematicolor pictures, the first ever taken in America, motion pictures and superbly colored stereopticon slides are used to portray the actual results that were accomplished by a little thought, a few seeds and pleasant work.

All interested in making their own yards, their neighborhood and this city more attractive are invited to attend this lecture.

AXE SECT KILLS THREE

HIGH PRIESTESS IN JAIL PREDICTS DEATH OF 30 BEFORE NEW MOON AND NEGROES FEAR

PHILADELPHIA, Miss., Nov. 22.—William Walmsley, his wife and four year old child, negroes, were murdered here during the night with an axe. Negroes in the neighborhood are terror stricken today and the police hold the "sacrifice sect" responsible for the murders.

Clementine Barnabet, high priestess of the sacrifice sect, now in prison at Lafayette, La., predicted a few days ago that 30 persons would be sacrificed before the new moon. The woman has confessed to 18 murders and it is believed she is communicating with some one outside the prison.

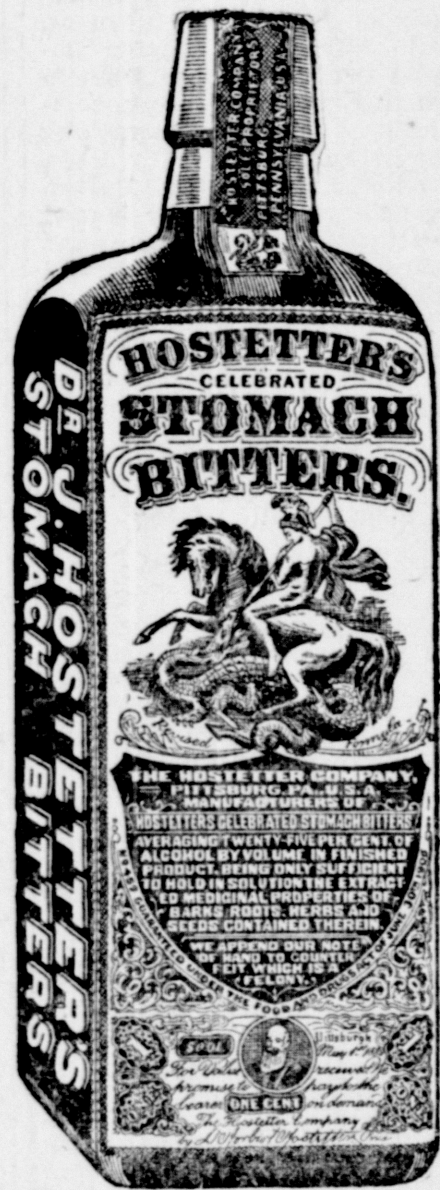

How He Managed It.

They were entertaining the minister at dinner, and after the dessert had been eaten little Johnny said, "Won't you have another piece of pie, Mr. Hobbs?"

The minister laughed. "Well, Johnny," he said, "since you are so polite I believe I will have another slice."

"Good!" said Johnny. "Now, ma, remember your promise. You said if it was necessary to cut into the second pie I could have another piece."—Ladies' Home Journal.

SPOTLIGHTS

"THE LIGHT ETERNAL"

Just how close is the tie between the pulpit and the stage—or, at least, how close it is possible for that tie to be made—is vividly shown by such plays as "The Light Eternal," to be offered at the La Crosse theater tonight. As the theater was originally a means of religious instruction, so the play which combines genuine dramatic merit with ethical and moral teachings, approaches nearest to the ideal drama and becomes a power for good. Marco Valerius, a young Roman scholar, is triumphant at the games and receives a decoration from the Emperor Diocletian. Incidentally he wins favor with the Princess Artemia, at whose behest he is made a captain of the guard and stationed at her villa in the Roman campagna. Corvinus Tharagus, his chief rival at the games as well as at the heart of the princess, becomes secretly an adherent to the hated faith of Christianity, and loses not a minute in imparting this fact to Artemia. Blinded with fury at being won by a loathsome follower of the Nazarene, the princess places her lover in the grasp of the Roman law. Then comes repentance of her rashness, a fruitless appeal to Diocletian for his pardon, and lastly conversion to the faith for which He died. This conversion carries with it the same condemnation for a daughter of the Caesars as for the lowly captain of the guard, and the final tableaux of the play shows the lovers clasped in fond embrace awaiting death in the bloody arena.

"FRECKLES"

A dramatization of the most widely read book in the past decade, and a highly successful play is "Freckles," Gene Stratton-Porter's masterpiece, dramatized by Neil Twomey, which is at the La Crosse theater tomorrow afternoon and night. From a literary point of view there have been few greater pastoral stories written. That it has been marvelously popular is proven by the fact that over a million persons have read it. When one has read a story there is always a desire to see it played; to see the characters in real life, and this is undoubtedly one of the most important reasons for the success of "Freckles" as a drama. It is making theatrical history, is this wonderful story as dramatized. During its trial performances last season it drew record breaking audiences, and with unanimous acclaim the prophecy went out that its success as a drama would be equal to its success as a story. On its regular tour, with a more complete scenic equipment, a stronger company of artists and the smoothing down, which is a necessity with all stage productions, it is playing to capacity audiences everywhere.

"THE THIEF"

It can be truly said of "The Thief"—Heperi Bernstein's great play, which appears at the La Crosse theater on Thanksgiving, matinee and night, with Marion Sherwood in the leading role—that it is one of the most interesting and absorbing plays that has ever been presented to the play goers of the world.

It tells the tale of a woman's efforts to hold her husband's love and to what depth she will go in order that she might look beautiful in his eyes. The character of Marie Louise is a type familiar to everyone and it has been said of the character that she is more true to life than any character in any play or book of recent years.

A Wonderful Island of Chalk.

The English island of Thanet, forming a part of the county of Kent, is almost wholly composed of chalk. The island is ten miles in length and about five in breadth and has more chalk exposed on its surface than has any other spot of equal area on the globe. British geologists say that there are not less than 42,000,000,000 tons of chalk "in sight" on Thanet and that it would take 10,000 men and 5,000 horses and carts 20,000 years to move it, provided it were dug up ready to be carried away.

The Kingfisher.

Many and curious are the legends of the kingfisher. One of these is to the effect that the bird was originally a plain gray in color, but upon being let loose from the ark flew toward the setting sun and had its back stained blue by the sky and its lower plumage scorched by the sun to gorgeous hues. The dried body of the kingfisher was once used as a charm against thunderbolts and moths, and it was being up so that it might point with its bill to the wind's quarter.

"CAST YOUR BREAD UPON THE WATERS"

To you the value of a dollar depends upon your chance to acquire it. If you pay a dollar to a local man, the chance of your getting all or part of it back is fair; if you spend it with a Chicago or New York man, the chance of your getting it back is remote. Why not keep the dollar as near as possible?

It is the wages of workmen that make cities prosperous. Spend your money so that it will be paid to La Crosse men in the pay envelope, and it will come back to you.

Another item of advantage in "home trade" lies in the fact that the home merchant delivers the goods at your door. It costs money to do this, for the profitless ten-cent package must be delivered at a loss.

If La Crosse factories successfully compete in foreign territory, how can we reject their products at home without inviting the suspicion that we are not fair and public spirited?

WHY NOT A HOME FOR EX-PRESIDENTS

Mr. Carnegie offers a fund to pension ex-presidents. We presume there will be presidents whom Mr. Carnegie would be glad to pension in retirement during their terms in office, and there will be others whom he would enjoy excluding entirely.

It must be trying to have so much money one must invent foolish ways of spending it. Most all the need in the world is too far below the turkeys of Skibo castle to be seen with the naked eye. Pensioning angora cats and ex-presidents—anything that savors of aristocracy in distress—is about as near to genuine service as Andy's limitations will permit him to come.

How would it do for The Laird to found an institute dedicated to the solution of the problem of getting the camel through the needle's eye?

SHORTAGE IN COAL AGAIN

The shortage of freight and coal cars which occurs every year is getting tiresome to the general shipping public. Every winter season the railroads seem to have the same old difficulty in keeping coal moving, although they know in advance just what conditions will be and have every opportunity to prepare for them.

It is encouraging, therefore, to note that the interstate commerce commission has taken the matter in hand and given the railroads warning that if they do not care for the situation this supervisory body will see that they do. The commission from its preliminary investigation has found that the shortage is due in part to delay in the unloading of cars, the slow movement of freight trains and the failure of railroads to return cars to the roads owning them. For cars belonging to other roads and retained an absurdly small fee is charged. It would naturally seem that the roads would be glad to increase this. The reason they do not is that most of them are guilty of the habit of keeping freight cars too long and the higher charge assessed another road would work both ways. The commission, however, now insists that the railroads increase the per diem charge. This in itself is likely to do much toward relieving chronic shortages.

It is also suggested that an inspection service be at once instituted to report to the commission violations of the rules intended to insure return of equipment to the road owning it. It is likewise recommended that operating officials make full use of locomotives and cars by increasing the speed of freight trains. That this reform is needed can be better realized when it is known that freight trains make only an average speed of twenty-five miles a day. An increase in speed would be equivalent to an increase in equipment.

The way the railroads succeed in getting in the hole just as soon as there is any great demand for their service will go a long way to convince the average man that Louis D. Brandeis, the Boston lawyer, was telling the truth when he said that scientific management would save the transportation lines of this country $1,000,000 a day.

PEACE AND PROGRESS OR POLITICS AND WAR

We haven't enough "sporting blood" to anticipate with delight the prospect of a "pretty scrap" between Senator La Follette and Governor McGovern for the control of the 1913 legislature. In such a conflict we see costly interference with the legislative efficiency required to write into law the things promised in the progressive republican platform.

However, if it be a fact that McGovern proposes to enter into alliance with other factions and parties in an effort to whip the progressive republican organization in Wisconsin, the conflict will be both inevitable and essential. We'd prefer to work with the governor for good laws, but if it's to be politics, we can't afford to sit and permit bad politics to win.

A BOOST FOR THE HOME BEAUTIFUL

There is a chance of confusion regarding the importance of the moving picture show and lecture on beautification of home and city which will shortly be presented here by the officials of the National Cash Register company.

People may say, "It's advertising." Others replying that the company sells neither seeds nor shrubs nor landscapes, the reply that "it's advertising" will be repeated.

It is advertising, in a way. But what of it? Mr. Patterson, president of the company, is deeply interested in the "beautiful" movement. He is one of the pioneers, and when he sends us, free, a picture show and lecturer to give us the benefit of his experience, why not take it in good faith, as it is offered?

We wish every company would advertise itself in a way as useful and clean as the picture shows of the Patterson concern.

Incidentally, a discussion in The Tribune this week, we are assured, brought to a head the plans of the Patterson managers to bring their show to this city.

THE SANITY EXPERT GRAFI IS DOOMED

Wisconsin's law for a commission to pass upon the mental condition of alleged criminals will no doubt be copied by other states. As in the case of Schrank, the decision represents the unbiased judgment of the alienists instead of, as in the other practice, the preponderance of paid expert influence.

Take the Thaw case. Approximately $200,000 was paid out by state and defense to experts. The experts, within the limits of rational deduction, testified along the lines sought by the side that retained them.

The Wisconsin plan will be generally employed throughout the country within four years. It is the plainest of common sense, while the old way makes for graft and defrauds justice.

FLYNN LIABILITY NOT AN ASSET

Bill Flynn, ex-boss and representative of that type of the contractor-politician which has contributed so much to the gaiety of courts and muckrakers, has deserted the bull moose and come back into the republican party. Papers like The Sentinel print the story and assume that the laugh is on Teddy. Looks to us like the joke was on the republican party.

DUNNE TAKES THE SAME POSITION

Politicians are "roasting" Governor-elect Dunne of Illinois, because he has announced that he will not immediately oust republican incumbents from appointive positions and replace them with democrats. Mr. Dunne can afford to let the politicians rant, for the public will endorse his refusal to throw the machinery of government into confusion in order to satisfy seekers of office. When all public men take the same stand the "civil service laws" will no longer be needed.

The treasury department has announced that it will have the designs on paper money changed, but most people will have the same designs on money that they have always had.

The Boon of Health Makes Manly Men.

(From Statistic Student.)

Private statistics of a physician with a national practice, indicate that fully fifty per cent of middle-aged men are partly, or wholly deficient in ability, manliness and health. If men could only know the meaning of the usual symptoms which presage the oncoming of premature age many could be saved from misery, despondency and an early grave. Symptoms should not be confounded with disease, but should be accepted as warnings of the approach of disease.

That many may know what to do when such symptoms exist the following symptoms and prescription is published.

A premature break-down of the vitality is indicated by dull, sunken eyes, cold extremities, backache, headache, fatigue, pains in small of back, pains in back of head, spots before the eyes, weakness in spine, twitching and trembling, impaired memory, loss of appetite, wasting, thinness (or abnormal fat), shrunken, flabby flesh, wrinkles, dullness, languor, constipation, kidney disorders, irritability, lack of ambition, timidity, weak-spirited, dragging walk and unmanly carriage.

If the reader decides to try it, get three ounces of ordinary syrup of sarsaparilla compound, and one ounce compound fluid balmwort; mix and let stand two hours; then get one ounce compound essence cardiol and one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom), mix all together, shake well and take a teaspoonful after each meal and one at night.

This contains no opiates whatever and may also be used by women who suffer with their nerves with absolute certainty of prompt and lasting benefits.

By preparing the treatment at home secretly no one need know of another's trouble, while the ingredients are much used in filling various prescriptions, so that even the purchase of them separately need occasion no timidity.—Advertisement.

Is a household word and used in thousands of homes in this great country.

A Delicate Point

They are a happy Sewickley couple. They haven't been married very long. In fact, the honeymoon has barely waned. An elderly friend met the bridegroom down town yesterday and slapped him on the back. "Well, happy as a lark, I suppose?"

"Oh, yes." "How's the cooking?" "I have one trouble there. It's just this, my wife has been preparing angel every day for dinner." "You must be getting tired of it." "I am. Yet I feel a hesitancy about saying anything. How soon after the honeymoon will it be proper to ask for beefsteak and onions?"—Pittsburgh Post.

He Liked a Winner

E. Phillips Oppenheim, the English novelist, is fond of American lobsters, which are more delicate than their English cousins. During his recent visit to New York Mr. Oppenheim was nightly to be seen in a lobster palace, and it is related of him that one night his waiter brought him a lobster that lacked a claw.

"I say, waiter, there's a claw missing here, you know," he complained.

"Yes, sir," said the waiter. "Two lobsters got to fighting" downstairs, sir, and this here feller lost a flipper."

Mr. Oppenheim pushed back his plate a little wearily. "Take him away," he said, "and bring me the winner."—Philadelphia Record.

This story has been going the rounds of Boston about the 10 year old son of Director Russell of the Boston opera house.

One evening during an entr'acte at the opera house Master Russell was promenading alone in the foyer, in faultless evening dress—a very glass of fashion. A Boston matron, seeing that he was lonely, began to make herself "agreeable."

"You are Director Russell's little boy, aren't you?" she asked, with patronizing sweetness.

Master Russell resented this intrusion on his dignity, but his courtly manners were unruffled. "Yes, madam," he replied, with an elaborate bow.

"Where were you born?" "In France, madam."—Slightly more frigid.

"What part," continued the lady, feeling the conversation well started.

"All of me, madam." And he bowed and walked away. —Judge.

THE MARRIAGE OF CAPTAIN KETTLE

By C. J. Cutcliffe Hynde. Copyright The Robt-Merrill Co.

"He would if he was let. The trouble for him will be that we've got further use for him."

Alfred was clearly distressed. "I won't be a party to any more games," he babbled.

"Wait till you're invited, old son."

"But what are you up to? It isn't murder? I couldn't stand that. I—I believe I'd inform if you did."

"My brave boy, calm your twittering nerves. The gentleman is far more valuable to us alive than dead. He is going to ship as fireman on a voyage to Valparaiso, and we—or, perhaps, I should say, as you don't seem inclined to chip in—I will draw his advance pay. Twig?"

"But he'll come to before you can get him to Birkenhead or Liverpool, and shipped."

"Again, old son, you undervalue my skill. Permit me to remind you that once in my shady past I was a doctor (or to be more precise, an unqualified medical student), that being, of course, in the days before you and I met as comedians (as I think we called ourselves) on the music-hall stage, which was before the period when we found it convenient to go foreign in a stake-hold, which again was before we started picking up a livelihood in this present boat on the Mersey estuary."

"Oh, do get on, and don't drelt."

"As a relic of one of my earlier professions I invariably carry a hypodermic syringe, and a small but carefully selected collection of drugs. Two tubes in the waistcoat pocket contain all the lot. It always jars my nerves to read the rot that ignorant novellists charm out about dopping an unwilling hand by putting laudanum in his beer, when probably the beggar has a distaste for beer, and wouldn't drink it at your hands, anyway. Now a little jab from a hypodermic needle, and your patient gets his dose whether he likes it or not; thinks probably that you have lurched up against him by accident, and scratched him with a pin in your waistcoat; and, according to how that little dose is made up, he promptly proceeds to go off to sleep for a given period, or, if you so regulate it, he sleeps on to the end of time. It's neat, it's scientific, and it leaves no blundering traces for the fools of police to read from the outside, or for an interfering analyst to deduce from the contents of the gentleman's tummy."

"You are a devil."

"I'll admit if you like, old son, that I'm a distinct danger to society at present. But if society would combine together to provide me with a thousand a year—and see I didn't overspend it—why, I'd be an ornament to the British Isles, an unobtrusive, club-attending, well-dressed ornament, with strong views about the criminal classes, and a distinct talent for breeding prize fox terriers. Don't try and plice that halyard. Knot it, and turn it end for end."

The shabby man in the bows lifted the prostrate Mr. Kettle to an easier position. "He's as limp as a bit of chewed string. I believe you have killed him. Oh, lord, Arthur, what shall we do next?" "Make sure our passenger does not come to life again with unpleasant suddenness. He's a bit too limp for my taste. Here, I'll just give him a pinch of soothing syrup."

Ha! I told you so. Catch hold of him from behind. Hit him over the head with the boat-hook. Well, hold him like that if you like, then, till I get this quieter jammed into his thigh. "Phew! Alfred, old son, that was a close call. The man's all steel springs with brass ends to them. He'd got me nearly strangled before I had him quieted off. There'll be a nice quiet stoke-hole somewhere while this little man's being taught to shovel coal."

"Where are you going to put in shore? If he's to be shipped, I suppose Liverpool's best."

"I don't think Liverpool, say you, and by your own showing you are a nervous man? There are more toughs in Liverpool than in any other seaport in the British Isles, and in consequence every Liverpool bobby has both eyes sticking about a foot out of his head looking for them. No, Alfred, I don't escort a gentleman with drooping head, who has temporarily lost the use of his lower limbs down Liverpool streets at something past midnight, although he is got up in a uniform that hints he's a seafaring man. Which reminds me the aforesaid uniform is a heap too smart for the poor chap to wake up in and find himself in a stinking stokers' fo'c'sle. We must find him something more suitable. Can we draw on your wardrobe, old son?"

"I wish you'd stop your rotting."

"Of course, I'd forgotten. You've only the clothes you at present sit, or, to be more accurate, sprawl in. And I'm in the same box. Of course we did agree, come to think of it, that the troupe should travel light this tour. Bit of a dandy, isn't he, our friend, the juggins? I'd like to change duds with him, but I'm afraid his are a bit too smart to dress my present part in; they'd call too much attention from the BOWELS SLUGGISH, STOMACH SOUR, GASSY, UPSET? CASCARETS GREAT!

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means your stomach is full of sour bile—your liver is torpid—your bowels constipated. It isn't your stomach's fault—it isn't indigestion—it's biliousness and constipation.

Try Cascarets; they immediately sweeten the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight, straightens you out by morning.

LLOYD SEVERSON'S ILLNESS IS FATAL

Son of Mr. and Mrs. John Severson Dies of Meningitis of the Brain

Lloyd Melvin Severson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Severson, 1800 Loomis street, died of meningitis of the brain at his home last evening at 6 o'clock, following an illness of several weeks' duration.

Lloyd Severson was a well known and popular north side boy and his many friends were shocked to hear the news of his death as he was well liked by everybody. He was seven years old, having been born in this city on October 6, 1905.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Severson, four sisters, Mrs. McCormick of St. Paul, Josephine, Julia and Theresa Severson of this city and three brothers, John Severson of Tacoma, Wash., and Conrad and Sigurd Severson of La Crosse.

The funeral will be held Monday afternoon from the residence at 2 o'clock and from the Bethel Lutheran church at 2:30 o'clock with Rev. Christianson officiating at the services. Burial will be made in Oak Grove cemetery.

BUDGET IS ADOPTED BY CITY COUNCIL

Ald. Mahoney Declares the New State Laws Give County Long End of Appropriations

THE CITY IS LEFT WITHOUT FUNDS

Says City Pays a Greater Share of Cost of County Roads and All of Own Work

The city budget as recommended by the finance committee of the city council was adopted at last night's meeting following which Alderman P. W. Mahoney warned the council and officers of the various departments of the city government of the necessity of economy during the coming year.

Alderman Mahoney denounced certain state laws naming the income tax law and the state highway law, declaring that they operate in such a manner that the county is flush with money while the city is practically without enough funds to conduct its affairs.

"The provisions of the state highway law are such that the city must pay for the greater share of the roads in the county of La Crosse that are outside the city but when road improvement is done in the city, the city and citizens alone must bear the burden without aid from the county districts," said Mr. Mahoney.

"The income tax also operates to the disadvantage of the city. This provides that ten per cent of the income tax raised in the county goes to the state and that twenty per cent goes to the county. Of the $35,000 which is said to have been raised in this county, but $519 was raised in the county districts but they share with the city on the twenty per cent which is allotted to the county.

"The income tax for La Crosse county has been placed at $35,000 but I will not be surprised if we find that it does not exceed $20,000 thus leaving the city with nothing in the general fund and the necessity of carving on appropriations. Thus the county is flush while the city may be left without a cent in the general fund."

Members of the council declared that the lights of the "Great White Way" are in poor condition and that the globes need cleaning. The matter was referred to the committee on lights by Mayor John Dengler.

A resolution refusing a saloon license to John Ashley was adopted upon recommendation of the committee on license. Alderman Downs, a member of the committee declared that his record was not such as would act as a recommendation, that the chief of police had declared himself opposed to issuing him a license and that he is not a member of the Retail Liquor Dealers' association. The city clerk was ordered to refund his license fees.

A resolution providing for the appointment of a special committee to investigate into the necessity of having a new county map drawn was adopted and the committee was appointed.

The finance committee submitted a statement of the pay roll for election officers which amounted to $755. The meeting adjourned at 8:50, being one of the shortest meetings of the year.

Joe Ott, who is employed at Potosi, has returned to his home, 1337 Charles street, where he will spend a few days.

SALZER REFUSES TO OBEY ORDERS
The Board of Public Works Commands Him to Move Boat-house on the River
John P. Salzer today declared that he intended to take no action toward complying with a notice served upon him yesterday by the board of public works, ordering him to remove his boat-house from its present location at the foot of King street.
The notice which was also served upon A. A. Schroeder, partner owner, instructed them to remove the boat-house within the next twenty-four hours but failed to contain any information relative to the action of the board if they failed to comply.
When asked what action is contemplated upon the part of the board Fred Schnell today said that the board is merely acting under instructions of the city attorney and that he does not know what steps will be taken.
City Attorney A. H. Schubert denied that the board is working under his instructions asserting that he has no authority to give any such instructions to the board.
He said: "They consulted me about the matter and I advised them to write to Mr. Salzer, if they wish to take action, clearly stating their stand."
The board of public works desires to use the location occupied by the boat house for a pile driver which is being used in that locality.

LINCOLN-DOUGLAS ARE AGAIN VICTORS
Sixth Annual Debate Goes to Holder of the High School Title
For the sixth consecutive time in as many years the Lincoln Douglas Debating society defeated the Wendell Phillips in the annual debate between the two leading literary societies of the high school. The question up for discussion was: "Resolved, that compulsory boards of arbitration should be established to settle all disputes between capital and labor." The Wendell Phillips team of Figgie, Minshall and Goldberg upheld the affirmative and Webb, Witcraft and Walker upheld the negative for the L. D. S. The affirmative team lost out by arguing compulsory arbitration against voluntary arbitration while the negative did not uphold voluntary arbitration at all but substituting a profit sharing plan in the industry instead. Walker, the third speaker for the negative was the most polished speaker of the evening as he presented his arguments in a clear voice and in a clear concise manner. Witcraft, the first negative speaker used the fiery style of presentation while Webb, the other negative man, used the calm deliberative style. In this way they demanded the attention of the large audience that filled the room and also impressed the judges more than did their opponents who all used the same style of presentation. Prof. Austin of normal, Andrew Thompson, register of deeds and Dr. Kemper, of the north side, acted as the judges. Their decision was two to one for the negative.

EMERY PRESIDENT OF CITY MISSION
Re-elected at Meeting of Board of Directors; Marvin's Place Is Filled
C. E. Emery was re-elected president of the Union City Mission at the annual meeting of the mission board at the Mission hall last night. The other officers elected were: P. M. Brink, vice president; W. E. Walker, secretary-treasurer; D. C. Dewey, superintendent; and D. E. Bice and George H. Merman, auditing committee. Five directors' terms expired last night. Three of them were re-elected. Those re-elected were John M. Holley, Sr., F. P. Hixon and Fred B. Smith. The two new directors are P. M. Brink and John Halvorson. The directors were elected for a period of three years. George B. Marvin, for many years a director of the mission, tendered his resignation last night, owing to the fact that he is leaving the city. His place on the board of directors was filled by D. E. Bice, who will serve out the year remaining of Mr. Marvin's term. The reports of the secretary and superintendent were received and adopted.

Chicago Grain Review
CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Wheat showed a fairly steady and firm tone today, despite the very weak markets at Liverpool. War news evidently has had no more effect on this side of the Atlantic than in Europe. Press dispatches have been much more war like and sensational than the grain trade news. Sales today were 45,000 bushels.
Corn showed a much better tone for deferred than for December delivery. The latter went to discount under May today as against an equal premium to 1/2 cent over it at last night's close. Sales were 125,000 bushels.
Oats opened lower with the other grains, but very promptly advanced on attempts of local shorts to cover. Sales were 230,000 bushels.
Provision trade was light and the market was easier.

ON THE GREAT WHITE WAY
and bagged it with a clean shot.
Alderman Neumann scratched his head. "Tell me," he said, "oh! tell me, shentlens, how does the dog know the bird is in the grass, and how do you know the dog knows it?"
Next they flushed a squirrel, which beat it into the hollow of a tree. The party went on, but a half hour later they missed the alderman. They retraced their steps, and found him sitting under the tree within which the squirrel had taken refuge. Mr. Neumann's gun leaned against a stump some distance away, and in his hand was a great club.
"What you doing here" asked Jess.
"Ven der squirrel comes out, I bet I get him the first wallop," said the aldermanic nimrod.
The others held a council of safety, after which they took all the shells out of Mr. Neumann's belt and gun.
Eloquently Demuel W. Cox urged his resolution that every vote of the county board should be upon call of the roll.
"I want my friends and constituents to know how I voted on every question," he declared in a burst of the oratory which he is capable of uncoring whenever his feelings are aroused.
Some of the candidates for county physician, with heads together, came to the conclusion that Mr. Cox had not been exactly unequivocal in his stand on that matter, and after his resolution for the universal roll call had been defeated they caused a resolution to be introduced providing that the vote on county physician should be on call of the roll. They figured this would make Mr. Cox show his hand. But it didn't, for Mr. Cox emphatically voted "No!"
Judge Langstad hastily perused the cablegram. It read:
"Weingardt, Germany, November Seventh, 1913."
"Judge Herman Langstad," "La Crosse, Wis., U. S. A.—" "Congratulations on the defeat of Judge Kleeber."
(Signed)
"JOHN RACKLEMAN."
"Now vat you know about that!" exclaimed the coroner-elect, deeply affected. "Three dollars it cost him to send dot messages."
Then the judge paused. "Maybe it's a fake," he suspected. "Shon Elliott, vat you did mitt der envelope? By gollie, I know his writing!"
Peter Newburg, who seemed more than casually interested in the incident, suggested that as Mr. Vincent Tausche had visited Mr. Racklemann during a recent trip through Germany he should be able to verify the cablegram. Mr. Tausche certainly could. He showed the judge a letter which he had recently received from Racklemann. Sure enough, it stood on the envelope, "Weingardt, Germany."
"Chenuine!" admitted the judge. "By gollie, dot Racklemann he likes me." Then, after a pause, "Or maybe he don't like Schuge Kleeber, yes."
Apropos of all this, one wonders why Messrs. Newburg and Elliott were closeted with Tom Keegan that morning. Judge Langstad has his suspicions. He says:
"Preddy quick dead ones wont get gay mitt der coroner some more."
Mr. Koppelberger is not a vegetarian; it was for an entirely different reason that he didn't have meat for dinner that day.
Mr. Koppelberger had just left the club, where John Cameron and Frank Gesell had showed him a fine string of trout—never mind where they got 'em! Kop met Gus Rose, and mindful of sundry grudges, he said:
"Drop round to the club, Gus. Cameron and Gesell have a mess of trout for you and one for me."
Gus "dropped round," and hung round. John and Frank talked trout and Gus talked trout, but they forgot to mention what Gus had coming to 'im. Finally Gus, so to speak, took the bull by the horns, and asked:

"Where's mine?"
But the bull was dehorned, so to speak. Nobody knew where his were. Nobody had ever heard of his. In fact, there were no his.
Gus got wise, and Gus got action. He stepped quickly to the telephone. "Gimme 474-M," sezee. And then: "Mrs. Koppelberger? Howdy, Mrs. Kop. You're lookin' fine this mornin'." (Pretty old stuff, but he uncorked it.) "Say, you're not to order any meat for dinner. No, Frank has a nice mess of brook trout. Yes, it IS fine, isn't it?"
"How fortunate," said Mrs. Koppelberger. "I was just on the point of ordering the meat."
WILL SHOW ONLY BIG FEATURES
There is no form of amusement today which has so firm a hold on the people in every walk of life as the motion picture, and that the business is in its infancy few will question. Until very recently the so-called "feature film," consisting of two, three or even four reels, was considered a novelty, but conditions have changed. The wide awake producers, both in this country and abroad, have recognized the demand for the feature pictures, and realizing that this demand would enable them to secure the services of the brightest lights of the theatrical world, there began a scramble for the services of those who stood highest in popular favor, and the result is that we have such shining lights as Bernhardt, Nat Goodwin, Julia Marlowe, E. H. Sothern, Blanche Walsh and many others, producing for the motion picture, the plays in which they achieved their greatest individual success. With the single reel films this would have been impossible, but with the advent of the two, three or four reel features we may expect soon to see in film form all of the legitimate attractions of the day. Realizing that the future of the motion picture business lies in the feature films, Mr. McWilliams, who has been showing pictures in the La Crosse theater for some time, has decided to discontinue the exhibition of the single reel subjects, except in rare instances, and in the future exhibit nothing but the multiple reel features and some excellent bookings are promised for the near future. Mr. McWilliams says that with a smaller seating capacity it would be impossible to secure these attractions and show them profitably for the reason that the attractions are all booked on a percentage basis and adequate seating capacity is of prime necessity. A number of these state right features have recently been shown and the approval of the public was so marked that Mr. McWilliams decided to discontinue the old order and in the future exhibit the big features only.

Mr. Gansler is in La Crosse on a missionary expedition and will visit all the union men in the city during the next ten days. He will also visit all the hat dealers for the purpose of urging them to deal in union made goods only. Mr. Gansler has visited every city in the northwest during the last six months. He will address several more union meetings before he leaves the city.

BAZAAR COMES TO END
ST. MARY'S ANNUAL FAIR TO BE CLOSED WITH BIGGEST DOINGS OF THE WEEK THIS EVENING
The St. Mary's bazaar will wind up this evening after one of the most successful runs that it has ever enjoyed. Although the crowds have been large and have not been backward in buying the articles displayed, the management announced this morning that a large selection still remains, which will be cleared out this evening. Everything must go, as the advertisements say, and bargains are to be given.
The vaudeville show last night was featured by W. E. Melklejohn's feats of magic. Tonight F. L. Koppelberger, the city's vaudeville magnet, will have charge of the show. His experience in that line is expected to put out the star attraction of the bazaar. Among the other attractive features of the bazaar this evening will be the awarding of the prizes.

How the Y. W. C. A. Is Helping Girls in Foreign Countries Portrayed in Pageant

Four countries of the earth sent representatives to the Normal auditorium last night, the occasion being the production of the "Pageant of Nations," which was presented by the Normal and City Y. W. C. A. Representatives from China, Japan, India and South America took part in the pageant, which consisted of four acts, each of the acts showing some phase of the Y. W. C. A. work in one of these countries. A large and enthusiastic audience witnessed the presentation of the pageant, in which more than a hundred girls participated.

Native melodies were rendered during the intermissions by Misses Marie Novak, Byrdene Bovee and Charlotte Harple, while the normal orchestra, directed by Miss Harriet Oltman, also assisted.

In the first of the playlets was shown what the Y. W. C. A. classes and summer camp did for one family in India who were in straitened circumstances. By means of the classes one of the daughters learned typewriting and thus was able to help support the family, while the summer camp offered to the girls a cool place in which to rest and study, escaping the hot season in the city. Those taking part in this act were Josephine McCann as the Indian Mother; Edna Hanson and Bae Romanowsky as Ambu and Kuribal, her daughters; Lois Babb, secretary of the Y. W. C. A. Twenty girls from Grace and Bethany chapels took the parts of the child widows.

Work is Universal
The universality of the work of the Y. W. C. A. and how it reaches girls of different nationalities, was portrayed in the second playlet, the scene of which was laid in the office of the Y. W. C. A. at Buenos Ayres, South America. In this scene the general secretary was the means of helping in their trouble girls from America, France and England. The characters taking part were Bonnie Morgan, as Miss West, the general secretary; Rae Johnson, assistant secretary; Josephine Bangsberg, Felice Venaud; Ethel Schlabach, Jane Cholmondeley; Josephine Hintgen, Gertrude Randolph; Weeje, a lap dog, played by herself; Misses Maud Case, Elia Worman, Meta Schaefer, Winifred McMillan and Alta Davis, teachers boarding at the Y. W. C. A.

Shows Need of Physical Work
In the third act the physical work of the association was shown, members of the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium class taking part. The characters were Chun Ming Yu, member of the class for physical directors at Shanghai, Ida Hill; Miss Howard, physical director; Vernie Waringer; Miss Ting, Chinese secretary; Alma Ruden; Dr. Wu, Chinese woman doctor; Grace Wallace; Amah, servant in the association; Ruth Linker; Chinese girls, members of class for physical directors, members of Y. W. C. A. advanced gymnasium class. In this act was shown the need of Chinese women for physical work, so that they may learn to live right and take the right care of their bodies. At the opening of the second scene of this act a dumbbell drill given by the gymnasium class made a decided hit with the audience, and spoke well for the training received by the girls.

The Summer Conference
The scene of the final act was laid at the student summer conference of the Japanese association at Kugenuma, taking up the spiritual side of the work. Those taking part in this act were Myrtle Moore as Onesa San, a non-Christian girl; Ethel Dickie, Kita San, a Christian girl; Letha Hoyt, Sumi San; Charlotte Reimers, Kichi San; Frances Holford, Watanabe San; May Church, Miss Norton, American secretary; Ruth Rogers, Tami Tanaka, Japanese secretary; Misses Ella Thill, Gertrude Buehler, Eunice Holford, Grace Webb, Ruth Newcomb, Florence Jacobi, Helen Reid, student delegates.

Two of the playlets, Japan and South America, were given by the normal association, and two, China and India, by the city association. Miss Leila Gilbert, as the Spirit of Womanhood, spoke the prologue, telling of the time when womanhood throughout the world has been bowed to the dust and only man has been exalted, and showing how this has been changed to some extent, but also showing that the work is not yet completed.

Finale is Beautiful
As a finale an adaptation of the Pilgrim's Chorus was sung by the performers, which was an appeal for help, response to which was made by a group of American girls. This tableau was especially beautiful, girls from India, from China, from South America, from Japan, in native costume, being grouped about the central figure, the "Spirit of Womanhood," while to the right was the group of American girls, dressed in white, carrying American flags.

The proceeds from the production of this pageant will go towards carrying on the foreign work of the Y. W. C. A.

It's no easy task to convince a farmer that city people ever get up early enough to do an honest day's work.

NAMED BY THE PEOPLE

Fifty years ago Rev. Father John O'Brien of Lowell, Mass., recommended to his parishioners and friends the prescription that restored him to health and strength, so the people named it Father John's Medicine. It cures colds, heals throat and lungs and builds up the body.

As a guarantee that the story of Father John's Medicine is absolutely true, the sum of $25,000.00 will be given to any charitable institution if it can be shown otherwise.

If you have any difficulty in getting Father John's Medicine from your druggist write to Father John's Medicine, Lowell, Mass., enclosing $1.00 for a large bottle by express prepaid.

STORE BLOWN UP

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., Nov. 23.—One man was killed, three fatally and two seriously injured early today when a general store at Walsh's Spur was blown by dynamite. The store was the trading place for employees of the Paul Lumber company of the Chicago and Lavins Lumber mills.

BULLET GIVES REST

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—"I am going to take a long, long rest," wrote Louis Madison, a business man of Austin, a suburb. Chester Madison, aged 10, found his father's body today, a bullet fired by his own hand had pierced his temple.

She is indeed a clever woman if she is too clever to show it.

WOMAN'S delicate system requires more than ordinary care and attention—more care and attention than it is given by the average woman.

Neglect it and it will soon creep in, and the look of old age, sometimes quickly, sometimes gradually follows.

THIEF HURTS TEACHER

MISS ROSE KELLEY KNOCKED DOWN AND ROBBED IN WOODSHED OF COUNTRY SCHOOL

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 23.—Milwaukee authorities today notified Racine and Chicago police to look out for the assailant of Miss Rose Kelley, a St. Martins, Wis., school teacher. Miss Kelley was assaulted late yesterday when she went to the woodshed of her little district school for fuel to replenish the fire. The man tore several valuable rings from her hands and a locket and chain from the young woman's neck. Angered by his failure to find any money, he kicked his victim in the side, inflicting injuries that may prove to be serious.

Imitation humor may provoke more genuine laughter than the real thing. It is difficult for a woman to enact the dual role of soul-mate and helpmate.

IS YOUR CHILD'S TONGUE COATED?

If cross, feverish, bilious, stomach sour, give "Syrup of Figs" to clean its little clogged-up bowels.

Mother! Don't scold your cross, peevish child! Look at the tongue! See if it is white, yellow and coated! If your child is listless, drooping, isn't sleeping well, is restless, doesn't eat heartily or is cross, irritable, out of sorts with everybody, stomach sour, feverish, breath bad; has stomach ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is full of cold, it means the little one's stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels are filled with poisons and foul, constipated waste matter and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

Give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little waste clogged bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.—Advertisement.

The Latest Bible Revision

The new edition of the Bible, in which modern words appear and disputed meanings are decided in ways to suit Baptist theological views, has been twenty-five years preparing. As long ago as 1883, at a Baptist convention held at Saratoga Springs this revision was proposed, and a tentative organization formed, named the Bible Union, to secure funds for the revision and publication. A leading spirit in the task was the Rev. Dr. A. J. Rowland, for many years the head of the American Baptist Publication society, and to that society was assigned the task of bringing out the translation when completed. The money to pay the cost has been raised, much of it with difficulty, by public subscription, and chiefly from Baptists.

The most striking change is that of the insertion of the word "immerse" in brackets after the word "baptize" wherever the latter occurs. This is the crucial Baptist tenet. Other changes are not primary, but merely interesting, as the employment of the word "man" for Adam in the earlier chapters of Genesis, and "woman" for Eve; the words "great fish" for whale in the Jonah Nineveh story; and the use of the word "underworld" for hell as often as the latter occurs. Changes that cannot possibly be questioned, yet startle at first, include the simple 1912 word "love" for "lovesth," and "lead" for "leadeth," and so on. The book itself in appearance reminds one of any copy of the Bible, the work being excellent.

Automobile to Help the Church

The Catholic Extension society, with headquarters in Chicago, has an automobile chapel. Its main features are altar and sleeping accommodations for priest and chauffeur. The altar provided, it is possible to offer seats out of doors in suitable weather, and as the auto chapel is to do its work chiefly in the southwest this winter it is expected the weather may not interfere with the plan. Sleeping places are provided, not so much for comfort as to save hotel expenses. The exterior of the auto resembles a carryall, save the excellent but prominent lettering on the auto top.

The initial experiment of auto chapel was made by the Rev. Bernard Vaughan of London, whose chapel is somewhat larger than the American one.

Ropemaking 2,000 Years B. C.

The name of the first ropemaker and that of the land in which he practiced his art have both been lost to history. Before the beginning of the historical period considerable skill had been acquired in that line. Egyptian sculptures prove that the art was practiced at least 2,000 years before the time of Christ.

A CLEAN SCALP MEANS BEAUTIFUL HAIR

HERPICIDE There is nothing "just as good" as Newbro's Herpicide. Some dealers will even go so far as to tell you they have something better. That dealer has an axe to grind. You can't stop his grinding, but you can prevent him grinding it at your expense.

There is one sure, swift way to do it. Go where you can get what you ask for.

You won't be obliged to do this very often, as fortunately the majority of druggists are honest and conscientious.

Newbro's Herpicide has been so long and favorably known as the original dandruff germ destroyer that no one should be deceived.

When you need a hair remedy, you don't want one which merely promises to kill the dandruff germ and prevent the hair from falling.

You want one that will do it. Herpicide does it.

The hair becomes soft and lustrous. There is life, snap and beauty where formerly the hair was dead, dull and brittle.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Applications of this wonderful prophylactic may be obtained at the best barber shops and hair dressing parlors.

Send ten cents in postage or silver to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich., for a nice sample of Herpicide and a booklet telling all about the hair.

Hoeschler Bros., special agents.

The Coyote.

One of the most interesting wild animals is the prairie wolf, known in Mexico as the coyote and in the old world as the jackal. It is thirty-six to forty inches long, with a tail measuring sixteen to eighteen inches in length. The color is usually a dull, yellowish gray on the back and sides, with black cloudings. The underpart and inside of the limbs are of a dirty white tint. The voice is a sort of snapping bark, and for this reason the animal is known as the "barking wolf."

Banana Skin Law in Brazil.

During a Southwark inquest, in which it was suggested that an old man had slipped on a banana skin, a juror said he had been in Brazil, and there if a policeman saw a person throw a banana or orange skin on the roadway that person was at once arrested and fined or sent to prison.—London Daily Graphic.

Rocking for Time

A Richmond dandy called upon an old friend, who received him in a rocking chair. The visitor at once observed not only that his host did not rise, but that he continued to rock himself to and fro in a most curious way, similar to that of a person suffering from colic.

"You ain't sick, is yo', Harrison?" asked the caller anxiously. "No, I ain't sick, Mose," said Harrison. A moment's silence, during which the caller gazed wide eyed at the rocking figure.

"Den," continued Mose, "why in goodness does yo' rock yo'self dat way all de time?" Harrison paused not in his oscillations as he explained: "Yo' know dat good-fur-nothin' Bill Botts? Well, he done sold me a silver watch fo' five dollars, an' ef I stops movin' like dis, dat watch don't go!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Didn't Know Himself

An American traveling in Europe engaged a courier. Arriving at an inn in Austria, the man asked his servant to enter his name in accordance with the police regulations of that country. Some time after, the man asked the servant if he had complied with his orders.

"Yes, sir," was the reply. "How did you write my name?" asked the master. "Well, sir, I can't pronounce it," answered the servant, "but I copied it from your portmanteau, sir."

"Why, my name isn't there. Bring me the book." The register was brought, and, instead of the plain American name of two syllables, the following entry was revealed: "Monsieur Warranted Solid Leather."—Lippincott's.

He was Too Soon for Sylvester

Sylvester Rawlins, the musical critic, became hungry the other day. And so he walked a long way to get to a restaurant in which he is acquainted. The waiter, Julius, is a particular friend of Mr. Rawlins. That gentleman has always cherished the belief that Julius has served him well. He thinks that from time to time Julius has won better food for him than is set forth upon the menu.

"Bring me two or three fried eggs, Julius," Mr. Rawlins ordered. "Chess, sir, Mr. Rawlins," said Julius. "At once, sir."

And Julius hurried to the kitchen, walking in the duck footed haste of the perfect waiter. By and by he returned to Mr. Rawlins' side, to place the silver and do other little chores about the table. Mr. Rawlins thought he would have a bit of fun with Julius.

"Ah, Julius," said Mr. Rawlins. "By the way, Julius. See that those eggs are fresh, Julius."

"Too late, sir," said the grave Julius. "They're on the fire now."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Rubbing It In.

A speaker at an insurance men's banquet told an insurance story.

"A septuagenarian," he began, "said one night at dinner to his young wife: 'My darling, I have just insured my life in your favor for $100,000.'"

"Oh, you duck!" the beautiful girl cried, and rising and passing round the table, she kissed her husband lightly on his bald head.

"Darling," he said, taking her slim white hand, "is there anything else I can do for you?"

"Nothing on earth," she answered, and then, with a little sly laugh, she added, "Nothing in this world—nothing under heaven."—New York Tribune.

Taxation Against Burglary.

The more pretentious apartment houses in Vienna have a curious impost levied upon them. The doors are closed at ten o'clock at night, and after that hour every one who goes or comes must pay 20 cents until midnight and 40 cents thereafter until 6 o'clock in the morning. The impost must be paid as many times as a man enters or leaves a house. If, for instance, a person is in the house of a friend until 1 o'clock he must pay 40 cents on leaving the friend's house and another 40 cents on entering his own. The money thus raised is devoted to protecting the citizens against loss through burglars.—Harper's Weekly.

He who is drunk in a first class carriage has had a fit; he who has a fit in a third class is drunk.

One way to get inside the door of success is to crawl over the transom.

An Old Chinese Banknote.

Banknotes have been current in Europe only within the last three centuries, but the Chinese have used them over 4,000 years. The Asiatic museum at St. Petersburg has acquired a banknote issued in Peking in the year 2900 B. C., in many respects similar to those now in use. It is of thick white paper, inscribed in blue ink with the number of the note, the name of the bank and date of issue, the cashier's signature and the value in words as well as figures. "In addition," according to the London Chronicle, "the following sage counsel is engraved around the border: 'However much you may possess, strive to be thrifty.'"

If the Atlantic Were Lowered.

The pressure of water increases with the depth. One mile down this pressure is reckoned at more than a ton to the square inch—in other words, more than 133 times the pressure of the atmosphere. The depth of the sea presents some interesting considerations. If, it is claimed by one authority, the Atlantic ocean were lowered 6,564 feet it would be reduced to half its present width. If it were lowered a little more than three miles the result would be dry land all the way between Newfoundland and Ireland. If the Mediterranean were lowered 660 feet Africa would be joined to Italy and three separate seas would remain.—Exchange.

To wash new blankets soak for some hours in cold water, to which three handfuls of salt have been added, wring well, and then you will have no difficulty in washing in the usual way. If they are washed right off in hot water the first time it tends to set the sulphur in the blankets and turn them black.

Every Inch a Car.

The KisselKar—the easiest riding automobile ever built

This is a big fact which you can prove merely by riding in the KisselKar. Notice the roomy tonneau—see how you can lounge back in the unusually deep seats—watch the easy spring action when you cross the car tracks at a good speed. Particularly observe that you do not feel road vibration even at a good speed on rough roads.

The extra liberal wheelbase, big wheels, big tires, shock absorbers and eleven inches of seat upholstery absorb the last trace of road vibration.

Every tendency to brace yourself in the tonneau is eliminated from the KisselKar. You can completely lounge back in the soft seats, relax and enjoy riding with no sense of fatigue in day-long riding.

The KisselKar not only is the most comfortable car regardless of price yet produced by the industry, but is one of the most beautiful cars—striking in its clear-cut lines, and impressive in its spacious tonneau, its silent power, and road capabilities. Prices fully equipped—"Thirty" $1700—"Forty" $2000—"Fifty" $2500—60 H. P. "Six" $3150.

KISSELKAR

KisselKar Service is supplied by a national organization of special service-centers of which this is one, consisting of a special building, organization and equipment maintained by the manufacturer to oversee and give care to KisselKars in the hands of owners.

Such service takes the mechanical side of motoring off your hands, lowers running cost, retards depreciation, forestalls annoyances and insures fullest, constant motoring pleasure.

Call and make your own comparison or let us answer your questions.

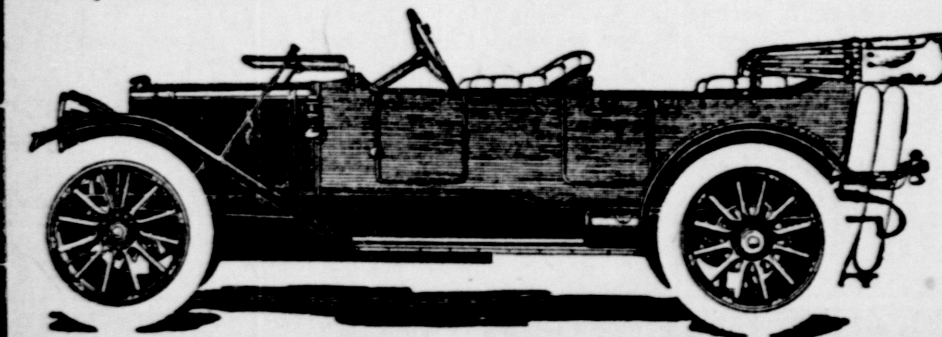

For economical delivery, investigate KisselKar commercial trucks, 1500 lbs., 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 tons.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 23.—The Wisconsin football squad left yesterday morning for Iowa City to meet the Iowa university team in the last game of the season. Twenty-seven men were taken on the trip. The players are all in the best of condition, and expressed confidence in their ability to hammer out a victory over the Hawkeyes. The Badgers will take a light workout on arriving, though it is thought that the men have had enough practice this week to suffice them.

Bear stories have been coming from Iowa for the past week about the weakness of the team there, but the Wisconsin coaches are taking no chances and are prepared to put up a stiff battle with the Iowans. Should it prove an easier matter than at first thought to win over them, it is quite probable that Coach Juneau will use his second string men as much as possible, in order to give them practice in some big games this year. The students are anxious that the varsity run up a score equal to that attained by the Minnesota team when they met Iowa, but the coaches will be satisfied with a much smaller one.

Juneau's main work the past week has been in perfecting his defense against the peculiar formations of the Hawkeyes. They have scored on every team they have met this fall, and it is Juneau's hope that the Badgers will prevent them from crossing their goal line.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—King football gives his gridiron sceptre a final flourish over the gridirons of the east and west today and the college world will be on hand to see the monarch's farewell. The royal celebration will be somewhat localized in the vicinity of Chicago, with the Maroon-Minnesota game at Marshall field and the Northwestern-Illinois scrap at Evanston. The "big nine" situation is the whole show in these parts, but the minor games have special claims all interest and promise to result in more real football than has been previously seen this year.

With Wisconsin and Iowa clashing at Iowa City, and Indiana and Purdue facing each other at Lafayette, the conference territory will be strewn with football fur and feathers by the middle of the afternoon. Most of the games will clean up the 1912 schedule with the exception of a few Thanksgiving day bills.

Gopher-Maroon Battle Premier

Chicago and Minnesota, each of whom have been defeated by Wisconsin, should put up the fastest sport of the season, and there is no reason why the game should not surpass the Chicago-Wisconsin and Minnesota-Wisconsin games in interest. The teams are almost evenly matched "on paper," but Minnesota is generally regarded as a slight favorite.

If the Midwayites can take the game the teams will have a tie of 5 to 5 in battle staged. Up to 1908 each team had captured two games and one had been tied. The Maroons won in 1908 but Minnesota has humbled Stagg's men for the last three years.

Stagg Gives Out Lineup

Coach Stagg superintended a dress rehearsal of his new plays at Marshall field and declared after the test that he considered the tricks in good working order. He announced Lawler for quarterback, Pierce for fullback and Gray and Norgren at the halves. Skinner is slated to appear at left half with Vruwink at right half, Carpenter and Eilers at the tackles. Scanlon and Harris at the guards and Des Jarden at center.

The Northwestern-Illinois game will determine the winner of third and fourth places in the conference in all probability. The Methodists are still elated by their feat in holding Chicago to three points while Illinois is badly battered as a result of their clash with the Midwayites last week.

15 WITNESSES WILL TESTIFY FOR FOGEL

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—Horace S. Fogel, president of the Phillies, stated that he has obtained evidence which will refute the charges of irregularity made against him by President Lynch of the National League. At the special meeting of the National league club owners to be held in New York next Thursday, Fogel says that he will bring fifteen witnesses to testify in his favor.

LA CROSSE PLAYS AT WINONA TODAY

Second Team Men to Play to Save the Regulars for the Sparta Game

The high school football team is playing the Winona high school team at Winona this afternoon. It is not definitely known what the local lineup is but it is expected that nearly all of the second team men will play in this game as Coach Sailer wishes to save the regulars for the game with Sparta which comes next Thursday. The first team men will be taken to the upriver city and some of them may start the game but when a sufficient lead has been obtained the seconds will be given a chance to see what the locals will have in line of football material for next year. At all events the locals are looking for a victory as they wish to keep their slate as clean as possible.

The game that is now absorbing all the attention of the school and football fans of the city is the one with the Sparta high school here on Thanksgiving day. Great rivalry has existed between the two schools from way back in the dark ages of football. The local authorities had hoped to advertise this game as the state champions against their old rivals, the Sparta highs, but fate saw it differently and now by comparative scores the two teams are evenly matched. Madison defeated Sparta at Sparta by the score of 26 to 0 and the same team defeated the locals at Madison by the score of 23 to 0.

The locals will not have the services of their star fullback, Marshall, in this game as he is declared ineligible on account of the fact that he was 21 years old last Monday. Usually the opposing team allows the man who becomes ineligible on account of age during the season to play but the Sparta authorities would not see it that way. This will make the teams a little more evenly matched as the loss will weaken the locals.

This is the first time in two years that these two teams have met but the old rivalry is keen and a great battle is expected.

JANESVILLE PLAYS OSHKOSH FOR TITLE

JANESVILLE, Wis., Nov. 23.—Oshkosh and Janesville high school football teams will play for the state high school football championship on Thanksgiving day at Oshkosh. This decision was reached by a conference between the coaches of the two schools after Madison had refused to accept the challenge of the local team. Janesville, Oshkosh and Madison are the only three teams in the small schools that have not suffered defeat this season and have played relatively strong teams.

Eau Claire is eliminated owing to the fact they just defeated La Crosse on a fluke and Madison cleaned up La Crosse in neat style. Janesville had been promised a game with Madison for this week Saturday but it is understood the Madison team has disbanded, at any rate the game was refused.

MAKES CHARGES AGAINST ASYLUM

OSHKOSH, Wis., Nov. 23.—Dr. Rosalie M. Ladova, woman's physician at the Northern hospital for the insane, says she has been forced to resign her position because she had made serious charges against the management before the Wisconsin Women's Medical society November 12. Dr. Ladova was named by the board of control last May. She was formerly on the faculty of Rush Medical college, Chicago.

JANESVILLE BOYS FOUND GUILTY

JANESVILLE, Wis., Nov. 23.—Edward Meyer and Harry Burger, charged with causing the death of Tilly Bergsterman, were found guilty of murder in the third degree and rape, Friday night. The jury deliberated one hour and twenty-five minutes. Sentence will be imposed by Judge Grimm Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.
